Knowledge Check

Which is the most appropriate situation in which to clone a repository?

Select the best answer.

- ☐ You really like work that someone you don't know has posted on GitHub and you want a copy.
- ☐ You want a local version of one of your repositories that exists remotely.
- ☐ You want to make an army of repositories without the Jedi Council knowing.
- ☐ You want to make changes to a friend's repository but also want to make sure that your friend has the option to review and approve those changes before accepting them into the repository's head.
