

← Pre-Course Work

7 / 23

Who Does What?

Different data science roles require different skill sets. For instance, skills used by researchers aren't the same as those used by developers.

The skills you'll learn in this course align most closely with those used by data creatives on the job. You'll gain knowledge to apply to a wide range of roles and projects as we focus on the foundations of stats, programming, and machine learning.

